The Survivalist

Team Building to Play, Empower and Inspire!

Why Do This Event?

Friendly competition, jammed with wholesome business outcomes.

Core Concept

Your team has been shipwrecked on a deserted island somewhere off the Australian coast. They have made it to the beach with nothing except personal possessions. Our action packed survival mission pits teams against each other in a race for survival.

Objective

Teams build their base camp by completing a series of challenges. Each challenge ensures their teams' ability to survive and will ultimately determine which team gets rescued from the island.

We had booked 'The Survivalists' as team building event for our group of 30 team members in the Blue Mountains and had a great time. The Everest Team, led by Ingrid, was brilliant and very motivating! The activities were very diverse and involved logical, physical and strategic thinking – but also fun.

The organisation was very professional and suitable for the location and the overall feedback from the team was 'fantastic'.

We definitely will do it again.

We enlisted the services of the Everest team to liven things up at a recent conference dinner with the "Minute to Win it Game Show. I don't know who thinks up the games we played but they have a very good imagination! It was so much fun and got people interacting beyond the usual chatter over dinner. The Everest team did a great job keeping the momentum going and organising the teams with each round. Judging by the sounds of the laughter, it was a huge success and our post event survey reflected this as well. Highly recommended.

Aqueduct

Team Building to Play, Empower and Inspire!

Why Do This Event?

Prove that teams can work together in micro and macro sizes....this event shows how water can be transported with every group size.

Core Concept

Teams use pipe networks and their manpower to distribute water from Point A to Point B. The challenge is that the distance between the points grows exponentially in each round. Throughout the game, the Aqueduct will grow up to 100 metres, depending on your group size, in an epic expansion of team work!

Objective

Demonstrate resourcefulness and clean communication as your team builds the various components of the challenge.

Customized Events

Team Building to Play, Empower and Inspire!

Why Customize?

Let us do the work for you to match the theme, business outcomes or specific "feel" that you need.

Case Study

“Castaway Get Me To The Oscars”

Contiki Tours and STA travel had a movie theme within their conference and wanted something energetic, survival orientated with links to this movie theme.

Objective

Your team is the film crew making the Castaway sequel on a desert island. Things begin to go horribly wrong, and your team has to make it back to the mainland in time for presenting the precious film reel at the Oscars!
